Recipe for E-resources Discovery

- One part selector's judgement
- One part cataloging utility, such as OCLC's Connexion cataloging client
- One part library catalog
- One part discovery service
- One part good metadata
- One part authority control
- One part cataloger's judgement
- The kind assistance of your discovery or e-resources librarian "to taste"
- Dash of gumption

Final Thoughts

- ❖ Does your institution hold the Adam Matthew Digital American Indian Histories and Cultures collection? If so, would you consider joining in a cooperative effort to catalog the individual resources in the collection?
- Are there databases at your institution that lack resource discoverability?
- Reach out to work with your discovery or systems librarian if haven't already done so!
- If you are deriving or enhancing catalog records for digitized versions of print resources published in years past, consider adding new controlled access points with relator terms, and form and genre terms when needed.
- If you are working with batches of OCLC sourced MARC records, or vendor records with OCLC numbers, and you see needed revisions, consider enhancing the WorldCat records for the benefit of the greater community.
- Are selectors at your institution interested in open access, peer reviewed scholarly monographs? If not, perhaps your department or unit could do some preliminary research and start some conversations with them.
- ❖ Merriam Webster offers these synonyms for "gumption": "common sense, discreetness, discretion, horse sense, levelheadedness, nous [chiefly British], policy, prudence, sense, sensibleness, wisdom, wit."
